The FINAL EDITION of this remarkable work the first edition of which appeared in 1887. It is unique in its scope and consists altogether of 3760 pages, of which the last 476 pages (vol. VI) form the very copious authors' and subjects' index. The work does not include books published after 1930, and the earlier volumes do not go as far as that, but within that compass it is the only work of its kind, which will have to be consulted by an enquirer after the modern literature in any department of literature, science, or art. A very valuable feature of the work is the copious and scientific division of every subject included, while the index makes reference to any subject or author's name easy.

WALPOLE (Horace, FOURTH EARL OF ORFORD)] CATALOGUE of the ROYAL and NOBLE AUTHORS of ENGLAND, with Lists of their Works, second Edition, enlarged, with frontispiece by Grignion and leaf of music, etc., 2 vols. fcap. 8vo. contemporary calf gilt, £3. 3*s* 1759

SOTHERAN'S SECOND-HAND BOOK-CATALOGUES:

205 SOTHERAN'S PRICE CURRENT of LITERATURE, Nos. 530 to 857, comprising the COMPLETE SERIES of CATALOGUES of SECONDHAND BOOKS issued by MESSRS. HENRY SOTHERAN between 1894 and 1938, many being illustrated with plates and cuts ; bound in 45 yearly volumes 8vo. half roan (many rubbed and some covers loose, and a few vols. in parts sewn as issued) a unique series, £52. 10*s* H. Sotheran, 1894-9

The above series forms a complete run of the advertisers' Catalogues of Secondhand books issued between 1894 and 1938. Most of them are annotated, many illustrated or classic, and cover a wide range of subjects. It thus forms a unique opportunity, which cannot be repeated, as many of the catalogues are now out of print and scarce, to Bibliographers and Librarians to acquire at a relatively cheap rate hundreds of catalogues, which are bound to include many works that cannot be traced elsewhere, while the full and careful description of the titles would often supplement the greatly shortened ones generally to be found in bibliographical works.

Among many other catalogues of interest, this series includes the complete set of catalogues forming the BIBLIOTHECA CHEMICO-MATHEMATICA, with its Subject Index, and the First and Second Supplements, the BIBLIOTHECA REUTERIANA, and numerous specialized catalogues, such as the one entitled 'The History of Civilization,' and the now exceedingly rare Catalogue no. 770, which is included in the index of the Bibliotheca Chemico-Mathematica.

There are further the catalogues of the Library of Alfred Austin, Poet Laureate, and Sir Edward J. Poynter, P.R.A., the famous collection of books on British Ornithology formed by Major W. H. Mullens, and the three fine illustrated catalogues of a 'Valuable Old Country Library,' 1929-30. There are also a number of catalogues of Autograph Letters and MSS., including the Lord John Russell correspondence, while many of the catalogues include sections on Old Engravings. Finally there is the complete series of the illustrated 'Piccadilly Notes' (Nos. 1-23), including the personal reminiscences of the late J. H. Stonehouse, chiefly connected with his activities in the advertisers' firm.

206 # SOTHERAN'S BIBLIOTHECA CHEMICO-MATHEMATICA:

A CATALOGUE OF WORKS IN MANY TONGUES ON

EXACT AND APPLIED SCIENCE

(Compiled and copiously annotated by H. Z. and H. C. S.)

With a comprehensive SUBJECT-INDEX, 127 plates, containing 247 portraits and facsimi

2 vols. 8vo. (xii+964 pp., including 96 pp. of Index), red buckram, top edges red, 1921 ;

also FIRST SUPPLEMENT

8vo. (pp. xii+496), red buckram, uniform with the above, 1932 ;

and SECOND SUPPLEMENT

2 vols. 8vo. (pp. xi+1396), red buckram, uniform with the foregoing vols., 1937.

The complete work contains 47,538 items fully described and annotated on 2856 pages, and is indispensable to every Reference or Engineering Library.

This Catalogue is henceforward sold only in complete sets of 5 volumes, and as very few sets remain, its price is now

Containing a succinct Account of Traffick in General; its Benefits and Improvements: Of Discoveries, Wars and Conflicts at Sea, from the Original of Navigation to this Day; with special Regard to the English Nation; Their several Voyages and Expeditions, to the Beginning of our late Difference with Holland; In which His Majesties Title to the Dominion of the Sea is Asserted, against the Novel, and late Pretenders, large 12mo. contemporary sheep (back of binding very slightly damaged, otherwise a REMARKABLY FINE FRESH COPY), £12. 12*s*

T. R. for Benj. Tooke, 1674

According to D.N.B., this formed the 'first part of an intended 'History of the Dutch War . . . undertaken by the king's desire from official materials', which apparently did not give satisfaction.' The above, the only part published, was suppressed at the request of the Dutch ambassador, which would account for its rarity.

The present is an unusually fine copy, and contains at end 2 ll. with the 'Errata,' and the list of publications of Benj. Tooke.

68 FERNELIUS, JOHANNES. Monalosphaerium, partibus constans quatuor. Paris, Simon Colinaeus, 1526. Folio. 42 ll. With a magnificent woodcut border on title-page, decorated "à entrelacs," and with busts of symbolical figures, some fine ornamental initials beautifully executed on criblée ground, several fine woodcuts illustrating surveying operations, and numerous diagrams in the text. Boards. £18.18.

A very rare work by the great Paris mathematician, Jean Fernel (1497-1558), describing his newly invented instrument, the "monalosphaerium." In some respects he anticipates Finé's Quadrant, the description of which appeared in print a year later. The "monalosphaerium," which is fully described and illustrated, was to be used not only for astronomical and time measurements, but also for height and distance measurements in surveying.

A beautifully printed book, with many delicately cut initial letters, and a splendid border on the title-page. It is one of the finest employed by Colines for his scientific books, and was very probably designed by Oronce Finé. Fine copy.

62 [DEFOE (Daniel)] THE HISTORY OF THE PRINCIPAL DISCOVERIES AND IMPROVEMENTS IN THE SEVERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES; particularly in the several great Branches of Commerce, Navigation and Plantation in all parts of the known World, 1727 £7 7s

Old calf (joints a little weak). FIRST EDITION. VERY SCARCE not being mentioned in the long bibliography of him in the D.N.B. nor in Macculloch, or Palgrave. With the advertisement leaf at the end. It contains numerous references to the American Continent.

76 DESAGULIERS, JEAN THEOPHILE. Leçons Physico-Mechaniques ou Abrégé du Cours de Philosophie, Mechanique et Experimentale. London, 1717. 8vo. 2 ll. + 84 pp. + 1 plate of 35 mathematical figures. Contemp. panelled calf. £3.15.

Original edition of this book of lectures in various branches of physics by J. T. Désaguliers (1683-1744), the French scientist who was brought to England in a tub as a Huguenot refugee when only two years old. He studied and lectured at Oxford and became a Fellow of the Royal Society in 1714. This little book, as he explains in the preface, is the summary of his lectures to date and contains the results of much original research in experimental physics and astronomy. Besides working on the principles of barometers, thermometers, microscopes, telescopes, the compass-needle, etc., and inventing the "planetarium," which served to determine the exact distances of the heavenly bodies according to the systems of Newton and Copernicus, he developed considerably Newton's theories of light and optics. Rare. See Wheeler Gift Cat., 249 (Engl. edition of 1719).

76 GALILEI, GALILEO. Istoria e Dimostrazioni intorno alle Macchie Solari e loro accidenti comprese in tre lettere scritte all' illustrissimo signor Marco Velseri Linceo. Rome, Giacomo Mascardi, 1613. 4to. With portrait by Villamoena, 44 copper-engravings and 8 woodcuts. Old vellum. £37.10.

First issue of the First Edition, containing Galilei's discovery of sunspots—the priority of which is, however, claimed for John Fabricius.

The discovery of the solar spots soon led to the important conclusion that the sun has a rotatory motion round a fixed axis, the most important step in astronomy since Copernicus. This pronouncement brought him under the suspicion of the Roman Curia, and finally led to his imprisonment after the publication of the Dialogo (see next item). A fine copy of a very rare and important book.

79 GALILEI.—CAMPANELLA, THO. Apologia pro Galileo, ubi disquiritur, utrum ratio philosophandi, quam Galileus celebrat, faveat sacris scripturis, an adversetur. Frankfurt, G. Tampach, 1622. 4to. 58 pp. Boards. £5.5.

First edition. In February, 1616, the theologians of the Holy Office characterized Galilei's propositions that the sun is immovable in the centre of the world, and that the earth has a diurnal motion of rotation, as heretical and Galilei had to recant. Campanella, although strictly orthodox, was a follower of Cusa and Telesio and a precursor of modern empirical science. He defended Galilei in this rare treatise and several years later he wrote to Galilei that the Pope had told him in conversation of his disapproval of the prohibitory decree. Uncut copy, but browned.

[1380] ——— FREEMAN (Strickland). Observations on the Mechanism of the Horse's Foot; its natural spring explained, and a mode of shoeing recommended, by which the foot is defended from external injury, with the least impediment to its spring.

With sixteen plates of hoofs by W. Skelton after G. Kirtland (in two states—coloured and in out-line).

First Edition. 4to. Cloth.

London: W. Bulmer for the Author, 1796. £4 10s

77 GALILEI, GALILEO. Dialogo . . . sopra i due Massimi Sistemi del Mondo Tolemaico e Copernicano. Florence, Giov. Batt. Landini, 1632. 4to. With engr. title showing Aristotle, Ptolemy and Copernicus. 4 ll. + 458 pp. + 16 ll. Vellum. £31.10.

First Edition of this epoch-making work, a masterly defence of the Copernican system, which brought about Galilei's imprisonment and subsequent submission to torture.

The work having been rigidly suppressed, not only for its "heretical" views, but also for having offended Pope Urban VIII.'s vanity, who believed himself satirised as the dull interpreter of the Aristotelian system, the first edition has become exceedingly rare.

A few ll. slightly browned, as in the other known copies.

Thomas Gray was a native of Leeds, and as a boy had seen Blenkinsopp's famous locomotive at work on the Middleton railroad (see fifth plate). He was one who advocated the building of a 'general iron road' more especially between Liverpool and Manchester. This work has done more to familiarise the idea of a general railway system than any other.

GEDDE (Walter) A Booke of Sundry Draughtes, Principaly serving for Glasiers: And not Impertinent for Plasterers, and Gardiners: be sides sundry other professions. Wherunto is Annexed the manner how to anniel in Glas: And also the true forme of the Fornace, and the secretes thereof. Title within a broad woodcut border. 4°. London, Printed in Shoolane, at the signe of the Faulcon by Walter Dight, 1615.

The copy in the British Museum, C. 21. b 2, may be the only perfect copy recorded, as it contains intact the folding sheet after Q4 (page 103). This folding sheet contains four oblong "draughtes," of which three only are present in this copy.

Pickering, in his reprint of 1848, reproduces only three "draughts" from the folding sheet, and the later reprint of 1868 (Leadenhall Press) does not reproduce any portion of the folding sheet.

In this copy, three of these "draughtes" are present, half of the sheet having been pasted on to page 3, and one draught (cut at foot) pasted on to a fly-leaf.

In addition to the copy in the B.M., the S.T.C. records only copies in the Bodleian and Cambridge libraries.

The title is soiled, some leaves are slightly cut, and a few margins frayed or soiled.

The preliminary instructions are accompanied by a diagram and seven woodcuts.

"The first part of square draughtes" has a separate title dated 1615, and contains Nos. 1-66; then follow "Sundrie sortes, of Circuler, or Compas Draughtes" with separate title, undated, containing Nos. 67-103. "The manner Howe to Anneile" has a separate title dated 1616, and is followed by a woodcut of The true forme of the furnace. The titles are all within woodcut compartments.

Also an Account of some Experiments on Stones in the Kidneys and Bladder; with an Enquiry into the Nature of those anomalous Concretions. To which is added, an Appendix, containing Observations and Experiments relating to several Subjects in the first Volume . . . With an Index to both volumes.

First Edition.

London: for W. Innys and R. Manby and T. Woodward, 1733.

3 vols. 8vo. Original calf (joint cracked).

London: 1727-33. £27 10s

This is Hales's most important work, and may be said to have laid the foundation of vegetable physiology.

"Much of his work was devoted to the study of the loss of water which plants suffer by evaporation, and to the means by which the roots make good this loss. In these subjects many of his experiments remain of fundamental importance . . . Finding that gas could be obtained from plants by dry distillation, he was led to believe that gas might be condensed or in some way changed into the substances found in plants. In thus recognizing that the air may be a source of food to plants, he was a forerunner of Ingenhousz and de Saussure . . . In first opening the way to a correct appreciation of blood pressure, Hales's work may rank second in importance to Harvey's founding the modern science of physiology."—D.N.B.

"He not only exactly measured the amount of blood pressure under varying circumstances, the capacity of the heart, the diameter of the blood-vessels and the like, but also by an ingenious method measured the rate of flow of blood in the capillaries in the abdominal muscles and lungs of a frog."—Sir M. Foster.

A passage in the first volume shows him to have known in one of its aspects the important phenomenon called Osmosis—completely recognised and explained only in 1877 by Wilhelm Pfeiffer.

[645] CORYAT (Thomas). Coryats Crudities hastily gobled up in five Moneths travells in France, Savoy, Italy, Rhelia comonly called the Grisons country, Helvetia alias Switzerland, some parts of high Germany, and the Netherlands; Newly digested in the hungry aire of Odcombe in the County of Somerset, and now dispersed to the nourishment of the travelling Members of this Kingdome. [Printed title] "Three Crude Veines are presented in this Booke following (besides the foresaid Crudities) no lesse flowing in the body of the Booke, than the Crudities themselves, two of Rhetoricke and one of Poesie," etc. Rare Engraved title by Wm. Hole, at the bottom of which is a small portrait of the author (very slightly shaved at the top), and engraved plates.

Excessively Rare First Edition.

Sm. 4to. Orig. calf, gilt back, with clasps (joint repaired).

London: Printed by W. S. Anno Domini 1611. £50

This very curious and rare volume is especially difficult to find in complete state. The above copy is complete, with all the plates. Owing to these latter being engraved larger than the volume they are usually defective. In this case these defects are as follows:—

At Page 262. The author with the Venetian courtezan (tear repaired).

At Page 311. Amphitheater of Verona (laid down and a little imperfect in the centre where once folded).

At Page 452. Strasbourg Clock (slightly shaved at the head).

One or two tears in the text have been carefully repaired.

This copy has the two errata leaves at the end, seldom found.

THE INVENTION OF POCKET WATCHES.

51 COCHLAEUS, JO. Cosmographia Pomponii Mele, parvo quodam Compendio aucta, quo Geographiae Principia generaliter comprehenduntur . . . Germaniae descriptio. . . .—(Nürnberg, H. Weyssenburger, 1512). 4to.—Goth. 58 leaves. With a full-page woodcut of the Armillary Sphere. Boards. £24.

To his commentary on Mela, which also contains a passage on America not noticed by Harrisse, Joh. Cochlaeus, who was a schoolmaster at Nürnberg, has added a "Brief Description of Germany," since the ancient Mela had little to say on that country.

Naturally, he devotes an entire chapter of six pages to Nürnberg, in which he praises the ingenuity and skill of the Nürnberg artists and craftsmen, and after enumerating Albert Dürer the painter, Peter Vischer the bronzefounder, and Erhart Etzlaub the map maker, he mentions "Petrus Hēlē" = Peter Henlein, who, "though still a young man turns out work which the most learned scientists are admiring. For out of a little steel he manufactures watches, made up of a number of small wheels, which, however you turn them, and without any weights, show and strike the time for 40 hours, even when carried in the bosom or in a pocket.

This passage is the earliest known reference to the invention of portable watches, which throughout the sixteenth century were known all over Europe as "Nürnberg Eggs."

[790] CHARLETON (Walter). Chorea Gigantum: or, the most famous antiquity of Great-Britain, vulgarly called Stone-heng, standing on Salisbury Plain, restored to the Danes.

With two woodcut plates.

Large Paper Copy of the First Edition.

Small 4to. Original calf (joint little cracked).

London: for Henry Herringman, 1663. £12 10s

With "Imprimatur" leaf before the title-page.

A very celebrated little work, intended to prove that Stonehenge was made by the Danes, and used by them as a place of assembly, and of the inauguration of kings.

"The 'Chorea Gigantum' will always be kept in memory by the fine epistle which John Dryden wrote in its praise, the noblest poem in which English science has been celebrated by an English poet."—D.N.B.

"The longest Tyranny that ever sway'd
Was that wherein our Ancestors betray'd
Their free-born Reason to the Stagirite,
And made his Torch their universal night." Etc.

47 CAVALIERI, BONAVENTURA. Trigonometria, plana et sphaerica, linearis et logarithmica. Bologna, 1643. 4to. With frontispice and one plate. Sewn. £1.1.

Cavalieri introduced the use of logarithms into Italy. The book contains "the author's discovery of the expression for the area of a spherical triangle in terms of the spherical excess."

48 CAVALIERI, BONAVENTURA. Exercitationes Geometricae Sex. Bologna, J. Montius, 1647. 4to. 6 ll. + 543 pp. With numerous diagrams. Sewn. £2.2.

First edition. This book contains the earliest demonstration of the theorems of Pappus, and the first determination of focal distances of glass lenses.

DISCOVERY OF THE COMPOSITION OF WATER.

49 CAVENDISH, HENRY. Experiments on Air. Phil. Trans., London, 1784-85. With folding plate. Boards. £4.15.

"The first experimental proof of the fact that when inflammable air (hydrogen) is burned in ordinary air, water is produced."

"Cavendish's greatest discovery was his determination of the composition of water. He was the first to prove that water is not a simple or elementary substance, as supposed by the ancients, but is a compound of hydrogen and oxygen." (Sir Edw. Thorpe).

These two important papers were read on January 15th, 1784, and June 2nd, 1785, before the Royal Society.

CATS (Jacob) ALLE DE WERCKEN SO OUDEN ALS NIEUWEN. With engraved title, portrait of the author, 3 double-page plates, and very numerous fine copper cuts in the text (many circular within square frames), showing machines, occupations and diversions, monsters, etc., thick folio, cont. vellum, red edges. AMSTERDAM, by Jan. Jacobsz Schipper, 1658. SOUND CLEAN COPY £4/10/0

Familiarly known as "Cats' Emblems"; the second title reads "Emblemata Moralia et Oeconomica." The square cuts measure 5ins. each way, approximately, and the others 5¼ by 4¼ins. A curious and entertaining work.

Case

59 DESIGNERS, ETCHERS, &c.—The Case of designers, Engravers, Etchers, &c. stated in a letter to a Member of Parliament. 7 pages folio. 18th Century.

Shows how the shopkeepers defraud designers and others of the reward to which their labour and their brains entitle them.

Signed in pencil "J. H." A well-written and interesting letter. 10/-

46 CASTELLI, BENEDETTO. Della Misura dell'Acque Correnti. Rome, nella Stamparia Camerale, 1628. 4to. With a fine engraved title, a second title (p. 43), with the Barberini arms and several diagrams. Old limp vellum, gilt, with the Barberini bees in the four corners of both covers. £5.5.

Original edition. Castelli (1577-1644), Professor of Mathematics at Rome, was a close friend of Galilei and Torricelli's teacher. His treatise on the speed of liquids in channels and on the measurement of that speed is the first containing the well-known theorem in hydraulics known by the author's name.

The book is dedicated to Pope Urban VIII. and is in a nice Barberini binding. Small marginal stain on the first four leaves.

40 CAPO BIANCO, ALESSANDRO. Corona e Palma Militare di Artiglieria, nellaquale si tratta dell' Inventione di essa . . . & d'un Nuovo Instrumento per misurare distanze. Con una giunta della Fortificatione moderna . . . Venice, F. Bariletti, 1602. Fol. 4 + 58 leaves. With large woodcut on title showing the author with instruments, plans and cannon, and 96 woodcuts in the text. Contemp. vellum dyed green, with arms gilt on sides. £6.6.

The first book to recommend the use of cartridges in cannon to supersede the difficult, tedious and dangerous earlier method of loading with loose powder, and also interesting for the description of a remarkable measuring instrument, consisting of five component parts, invented by the author. The woodcuts show for the most part cannon and their construction, their correct positions for the bombardment of certain objectives, and plans of fortifications. Six woodcuts illustrate the measuring instrument and its use for calculating heights, depths and distances.

41 CARDANUS, HIERONYMUS. Ars Magna, sive de Regulis Algebraicis. Nürnberg, Jo. Petreius, 1545. Fol. 82 leaves including last blank. Woodcut portrait on title. Old calf, worn. £21.

FIRST EDITION of Cardano's classic work, the foundation of modern Algebra.

Among many mathematical achievements here first announced in print some of the most revolutionary are the Solution of Cubic Equations, the confident use of roots of negative quantities and even of imaginary roots and quantities. This original edition of Cardano's most important contribution to the advance of science is of great rarity.

42 CARDANUS, HIERON. Liber de Libris Propriis. Lyons, Guil. Rouillius, 1557. 8vo. 192 pp. Device on title. Calf. £2.2.

See Bibliotheca Osleriana 4654, with note. This is the second, much enlarged version of the "De libris propriis," dated 1554, but not issued until 1557 with the short appendix on pp. 191-2. The first appeared in 1544 at the end of the "De Sapientia," and the third in 1562 in "Somniorum Synesiorum libri IV"; all three are reprinted as different works in the Opera, 1663.

Cardanus, learned in Philosophy and Medicine, is one of the most interesting personalities of the Italian Renaissance (b. 1501, d. 1575). He was a prolific writer, and his books include treatises in almost every department of philosophy and natural science, mathematics, astronomy, physics, medicine, divination, etc., etc. This little autobiographical work, dealing with the books he wrote and the studies he made, names a number of famous contemporaries in the world of philosophy and medicine, and on p. 110 we find Vesalius. Tear on p. 15 repaired.

as a Specimen of Typography. 4to, numerous woodcuts by Henry Hole, original boards, skilfully repaired, uncut. £3 10 0

Printed by J. McCreery: Liverpool, 1803

 An important item in the history of typography. Straus and Dent, John Baskerville (1908), pp. 21 and 65; D.N.B. xii. 456. The beautiful types from which this book was printed were cut by the brother of Baskerville's foreman, William Martin. The D.N.B. remarks upon the typographic beauty, and Dibdin, for whom McCreery printed "Bibliomania," highly praises the printer-poet's work. The text is interesting, and "contains a few well-written notes upon the origin and development of the art of printing."—D.N.B. Timperley dwells upon the beauties of the poem, remarking upon the "general chasteness of language and a glowing love of freedom."

RARE 30/-

Lacks title and last leaf of Preface & F2-F8, G1-G8 (last leaf), text slightly defective at fore-margins of two leaves, other fore-margins slightly frayed by damp, small wormhole at top margins. Except for imperfections mentioned, a large copy of this rare item.

318 TRADESMEN'S CARDS. HEAL (Ambrose) London Tradesmen's Cards of the Eighteenth Century. An account of their origin and use. 4to, illustrated by 102 full-page facsimiles in collotype, antique style boards, buckram back. AS NEW. £2 2 0

B. T. Batsford, Ltd.: London, 1925

 Limited to 700 copies. This is the first book to deal with its subject, the author has assidnously collected rare and interesting specimens of these cards, which together with others from the important collections in the London Museum, are reproduced for the first time in this work. In addition to giving the traders' names and address, and the nature of his calling, these finely engraved sheets of handmade paper are, more often than not, veritable works of art to whose fashioning such men as Hogarth, Kirk, Bartolozzi, Delegel, and many other artists have contributed. Apart from their artistic qualities, they possess marked historical and heraldic interest. To topographers and students of costume the value of the subjects is equally obvious, for by their aid it possible to identify the position of the shops of the eighteenth century tradesmen, and follow the change in fashion of the costume throughout the Georgian reigns.

311 SPORT. DAVIS (A[lexander]) THE VELOCIPEDE AN HOW TO USE IT. Sm. 8vo, wood engravings, modern wrapper. £2 5 0

Joseph Bruton for A .Davis: London, 1869

∴ FIRST EDITION. VERY RARE.

We have only been able to trace one other copy (British Museum). According to the printed catalogues it is not in the London Library, the National Library of Scotland, the Signet Library, Edinburgh University Library, Trinity College (Dublin), Rylands Library, or the Bibliothèque Nationale.

As the first pedal driven bicycle was constructed about 1865 (Encyc. Brit. VII., 683), THIS MUST BE ONE OF THE EARLIEST BOOKS ON THE SUBJECT.

29 BOUGUER, PIERRE (& DE LA CONDAMINE). La Figure de la Terre, déterminée par les Observations . . . au Pérou. Paris, 1749. 4to. 266 ll. + 9 plates. Old calf, gilt back. £4.4.

Original edition of this valuable treatise, which is almost contemporary with Clairaut's and Maupertuis' books, dealing with the same subject. Bouguer spent nearly 8 years in Peru (1735-1743) to measure the circumference of the earth near the equator. A monument erected in 1742 in the college of the Jesuits at Quito commemorates the end of the long and exact measurements.

101 HOGREWE, J. L. Beschreibung der in England seit 1759 angelegten, und jetzt gröstentheils vollendeten schiffbaren Kanäle, zur innern Gemeinschaft der vornehmsten Handelstädte. Nebst einem Versuch einer Geschichte der inländischen Schiffahrt. Hannover, H. M. Pockwitz, 1780. 4to. 9 ll. + 164 pp. + 1 leaf. With vignette on title of a wharf at Birmingham and 10 fine folding engr. plates in colour, illustrating the geography and construction of English canals. Boards. £5.5.

This rare early book on Canals is divided into two sections: the first deals with the principles underlying the construction of these waterways and gives an account of canals in Russia, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, the Netherlands, France and Italy. The last part of the book (pp. 83-164) deals with English canals in detail, and all the 10 plates are devoted to maps and constructional details of these canals, e.g., Bridgewater, Oxford-Lichfield, Trent-Mersey, Liverpool-Leeds, Lincoln-Cambridge. These plates are splendidly engraved and appropriately and delicately coloured.

The author was a German engineer in the service of King George III. of England, to whom he dedicates this book. Fine copy.

116 KEPLER, JOHANN. De Stella Nova in pede serpentarii, et qui sub ejus exortum de novo iniit, Trigono Igneo. Accesserunt I., De Stella incognita Cygni narratio Astronomica. II., De Jesu Christi Servatoris Vero Anno Natalitio. Pragae, Paulus Sessius and Francofurti, Wolfg. Richter, 1606. 8vo. 6 ll. + 212 pp. + 1 plate, 35 + 3 pp. Vellum. £12.12.

First edition. The new stars of 1572 (on which Brahe wrote his famous first book) and 1604, of which this book deals, are memorable in the history of astronomy for the extraordinary splendour with which they suddenly burst forth upon the world. The 1604 star was first seen by Kepler on the 17th of October in the constellation of Serpentarius. "Kepler was of opinion that it was generated from an ethereal substance, not confined exclusively to the region of the Milky Way, as Tycho Brahe had supposed in the case of the star of 1572, but pervading all space." (Grant.)

The book was printed partly at Prague, partly at Frankfort; the last part, often separately offered, deals with astronomical researches into the real date of Christ's birth. Library stamp on title.

117 KEPLER, JOHANN. Astronomia Nova, aitiologetos, seu Physica coelestis, tradita comment. de Motibus stellae Martis ex observationibus C. V. Tychonis Brahe. Prague, 1609. Fol. Title, 18 ll. + 2 ll. (table) + 337 pp. With numerous woodcut diagrams and illustrations. Old calf. £135.

Editio Prineeps of Kepler's greatest work, in which he first proclaimed the first and second of his three famous laws. A good and perfect copy; a few leaves slightly browned. Of outstanding rarity.

99 FIRE-EXTINGUISHING. KNOX (William) LETTER . . . RESPECTING THE IMPORTANT DISCOVERY LATELY MADE IN SWEDEN of a method to extinguish fire . . . and hints of means of preserving timber . . . from that destructive element. Sm. 8vo, frontispiece, wrapper. £1 5 0

Very early edition, printed at Worms, of this practical handbook for goldsmiths and metal-workers, containing chemical recipes for the preparation of colours (cinnabar, vermilion), many methods of gilding and coating with silver, copper, etc., the preparation of alloys and the grading of gold.

520 LABELYE (C. de) A Description of the Carriages made use of by Ralph Allen, Esq., to carry Stone from his Quarries situated on the top of a Hill to the Water-side of the River Avon, near the City of Bath. [1734.] Sm. 4to. Calf, broken. 3 engraved folding plates. In Desaguliers' Course of Experimental Philosophy, Vol I, pp. 274-279 and plts. 21-23, 1734. This is the FIRST DESCRIPTION OF A RAILWAY (the vague reference in Gray's Chorographia of 1649 cannot be said to be a description). Charles Labelye was an Engineer of whom very little is known but who in 1751 became the engineer for the new Westminster Bridge. The Railway itself was of wooden beams apparently partly embedded in the soil and without cross ties. The waggons, however, were evidently a great advance of anything in existence elsewhere. They were 13 ft. long and 3½ ft. wide on four iron wheels of 20 ins. in diameter, and with a 6 in. flange. The waggons cost £30 each. Brakes or stops were provided for each wheel. The brakes and the flanged wheels are two inventions which appear here for the first time in print. Whether either was used before is impossible to state with any certainty. Name on title

Folding engraved plates.
8vo. Original calf. London: 1755.

£2 10s

9 AGRIPPA, CAMILLO. Trattato di trasportar la Guglia in su la Piazza di San Pietro. Rome, Zanetti, 1583. 4to. 47 pp. and a fine large folding plate, showing the scaffolding and machinery used in erecting the obelisk in front of St. Peters.

AGRIPPA, CAMILLO. Modo di comporre il moto nella Sfera. Rome, Blado, 1575. 4to. 8 pp. and a large engraved folding plate, showing the mechanism of a Planetarium constructed by Agrippa.

AGRIPPA, CAMILLO. Dialogo sopra la Generatione de Venti, Baleni, Tuoni, Fulgori, etc. Rome, 1584. 4to. 46 pp. + 1 blank leaf.

PIGAFETTA, FILIPPO. Discorso intorno all'historia della Aguglia, et alla ragione del muoverla. Rome, Grassi, 1586. 4to. 36 pp. Together in one vol. Vellum. £6.6.

The feat of moving and erecting the huge Egyptian Obelisk, which in Roman days had stood in the Circus Maximus, into the centre of the Piazza of St. Peter's, involved the solution of a great mechanical problem in those days when steam and steel were both unknown. The question of how the Romans had done it and the achievement of the Papal engineers who completed the task, gave rise to a large monograph by Fontana and to several smaller treatises, of which we here have two. The fine plate shows clearly the immense scaffolding of timber and ropes erected for this purpose.

THE FIRST ENGLISH COUNTY HISTORY

[572] NORDEN (John). Speculum Britanniae. The first parte. An historicall, and chorographicall discription of Middlesex. Wherein are also alphabeticallie sett downe, the names of the cyties, townes, parishes, hamlets, howses of name, &c. With direction spedelie to finde anie place desired in the mappe and the distance betwene place and place without compasses.

Etched title-page with decorative border by Pieter Vanden Keere; three etched folding maps of Middlesex, London, and Westminster; etched and woodcut coats-of-arms in the text.

Rare First Edition.

Sm. 4to. Full calf, gilt inside borders.

[London], 1593. £25

Several small tears repaired in the maps, otherwise a very good copy.

Dedicated to Queen Elizabeth and with an Address to Lord Burleigh.

Norden was the first Englishman who designed a complete series of County histories, but he only succeeded in publishing the "Middlesex" (1593) and "Hertfordshire" (1596), although he finished in manuscript full surveys of five other counties.

The map of London is described as "the best plan of London in Shakespeare's time that has come down to us." It was re-published and enlarged, accompanied by an admirable essay, by Mr. H. B. Wheatley, for the New Shakespeare Society in 1877.

This Translation is (as the 'interpreter' explains in his preface) from the crude original Latin into a more polished one.

The improver (whose real name was Sébastien Chastillon), was at first a friend and then an opponent of Calvin, and only escaped the fate of Servetus by a timely death.

One leaf torn and repaired and small hole affecting a few letters.

Napier's "Rabdologiae," originally published in Edinburgh in 1617, is the earliest known attempt at the invention of a calculating machine.

"These rods, being usually made of bone or ivory, were familiarly called 'Napier's bones.' By means of them multiplication and division could be performed by methods which were received throughout Europe as a valuable aid to the rude arithmetic of the day. The extraction of the square and cube root could also be performed by their help, in conjunction with two larger rods, the method of constructing which is described. In an appendix (here 'Prontuario della Molteplicatione') he explains another invention for the performance of multiplication and division—'the most expeditious of all'—by means of metal plates arranged in a box. This is the earliest known attempt at the invention of a calculating machine. There is also added his 'Local Arithmetic,' wherein he describes how multiplication and division, and even the extraction of roots, may be performed on a chess board by the movement of counters."—D.N.B.

52 [Monardes (Nicolas)]. Joyfull Newes of the New-Found Worlde: wherein are declared the rare and singular virtues of divers herbs, trees, plantes, oyles, and stones, with their application, as well to the use of Phisicke, as of Chirurgery; which being well applyed, bring such present remedy for all diseases, as may seem altogether incredible: notwithstanding by practice found out to be true. Also the portraiture of the said hearbs, very aptlie describ'd. Englished by John Frampton, marchant. Newly corrected as by conference with the old copies may appeare. Whereunto are added three other books treating of the bezaar stone, the herb escuerconera, the properties of iron and steel in medicine, and the benefit of snow. 72 FISHBOOK.—MANGOLT, GREGORIUS. Von der natur und eigenschafft der Vischen, insonderheit deren so gefangen werdend im Bodensee. . . .—Item ein ander Büchlin wie man Visch und Vögel fahen sölle, mit dreyssig neuwen und bewärten Recepten. (In the end:) Getruckt zu Zürych. Zürich, (Froschauer? about 1550). 12mo. 70 pages. With twelve woodcuts, one for each month of the year, each showing two different fishes which are at their best in that season. Half vellum. £10.10.

An extremely rare little book on fishes by a Swiss author, who deals chiefly with those sweet-water fishes caught in the lakes of Constance and Zürich.

After a general chapter on fishes there is a chapter on their proper preparation for the table: (Wie man die visch kochen solle). Then follow the detailed and exact descriptions of different kinds of fish, with indications of the best way to serve each one.

The "Fischbuch" ends on p. 43 and is followed by the "Büchlin wie man Visch und Vögel fahen sölle" (pp. 44-46). This is a reprint of a very old book of advice on the best methods for fowling and fishing. According to the interesting note given to another edition of this book in Schwerdt's: Hunting, Hawking, Shooting, Vol. II., pp. 161-2, the oldest of all known printed versions is an edition in Flemish printed at Antwerp in 1492 and there are a number of German issues of the XVIth century, of which Schwerdt possesses and describes two. The first of those has only 27 recipes, as against 30 in this edition; in the other (Ein Wunder Kunstreiches Büchlin, ab. 1531), the text is followed by an appendix: "Zu welcher zeit ein jeder Fisch am besten ist." This forms part also of this edition and occupies pp. 67-70.

There does not appear to be another edition of Mangolt's Fischbuch, which is a remarkable

THE INVENTION OF THE SEWING MACHINE.

164 MADERSPERGER, JOS. Beschreibung einer Nähmaschine.—(Vienna, 1814).—8vo. Copperplate figure of the Sewing Machine and 14 pages of explanatory text in German.—Boards. £12.12.

The first picture of a sewing-machine and very probably of the first sewing machine which ever actually was constructed and worked satisfactorily. Madersperger, the inventor, was a native of Kufstein in Tyrol, as he states in this practically unknown pamphlet.

The first sewing-machines by I. M. Singer were not constructed and put on the market before 1851, and they are the first which made the invention common property. The history of various antecedent attempts and constructions seems to be rather involved and obscure as far as we could ascertain. A patent for a sewing machine was granted in England as early as 1755 to Ch. F. Weisenthal, but nothing much is known about it; a machine patented by Thos. Saint in England in 1790 was intended for bootmaking only. The earliest sewing-machine in America was constructed by the Rev. John A. Dodge at Monckton (N.J.) in 1818, but in view of the furious opposition of the journeymen tailors he never made another.

This sewing-machine by Madersperger received an Imperial Austrian privilege (= patent) and was undoubtedly working in 1814. Its construction is in principle the same as a modern machine and it was capable of producing a great variety of plain and very complicated stitches (e.g., scallop-edging).

THE EARLIEST PICTURE OF A TELESCOPE.

136 MARIUS, SIMON. Mundus Jovialis anno 1609 detectus ope perspicilli belgici, hoc est quatuor Jovialium planetarum cum Theoria, tum Tabulae, propriis observationibus maxime fundatae . . . Nürnberg, 1614. 4to. 38 leaves (the last blank). With a fine woodcut portrait of the author showing his Telescope (perspicillum) lying beside him. Boards. £35.

The original edition of Marius on his discovery of the Satellites of Jupiter is one of the greatest rarities among all books in the field of old science.

Its importance is threefold: (1) It contains the earliest known pictorial representation of a telescope;

(2) In his Preface Marius gives a circumstantial account of his acquisition of this telescope from a Dutchman at the Frankfurt Fair of 1608; this very probably may have been Zach. Janssen of Middelburg, who is said to have constructed a telescope in 1604, or Jan Lipperhey, who in 1608 applied to the States General for a patent for telescopes. Galilei constructed his first telescope himself in 1609 from descriptions given to him of these Dutch instruments;

(3) The account and observations of the satellites of Jupiter, the first discovery immediately made with these telescopes, for which Marius claims the priority against Galilei and other rivals.

This delightful work is in FINE FRESH STATE, but lacks 40 pages of text and 41 plates, viz : plates and text to Nos. 1641-60 and 1681-90 in vol. 17 ; and plates and text to Nos. 1771-80 and plate 1735 in vol. 18. Plates 1981, 4, 5, 91, 95 and 2000 in vol. 20 are from a shorter copy. The last 7 vols. are a little shorter than the rest, and the binding of vol. 15 is not uniform.

One of the most beautiful botanical works ever issued, published by the celebrated florists of Hackney, whose gardens have long since been devoured by the builder. For both beauty and correct colouring the series has never been rivalled.

199 HATS. LLOYD (R.) DISSERTATIO CASTORUM : Delineations of Lloyd's Incomparable Beaver Hats. 8VO, NUMEROUS WOODCUTS OF HATS. Wrapper. 15/- Robert Lloyd, at his Hat Manufactory : London, 1830

137 MATTHEW, PATRICK. On Naval Timber and Arboriculture. London, 1831. 8vo, xvi + 391 pp. Original cloth, with original paper label and 16 pp. of advertisements. £10.10.

A most important book in the development of the idea of Natural Selection.

In the "Historical Sketch" attached to a later edition of the Origin of Species, Darwin wrote : "In 1831 Mr. Patrick Matthew published his work on Naval Timber, in which he gives precisely the same view on the origin of species as that propounded . . . by myself . . ."

Matthew's book has become rare, especially in its original state, like our copy.

141 MEYER, CORNELIUS. L'Arte di restituire a Roma la tralasciata Navigatione del suo Tevere.—Rome, Varese, 1685.—Folio. 98 leaves. With engr. Title and 62 fine engravings. Old calf, arms on sides. £12.12.

A strikingly fine book by a Dutch engineer, an expert in canal construction and drainage of land, called to Rome by the Papal government. He primarily strives to set out in detail how the Tiber could be regulated and made navigable again to the sea, a project which he illustrates with many fine views, a big map of the Pontine marshes and also many illustrations of technical details, devices and inventions of his own.

Beside his river-regulation proposals he sets out in this book a number of other projects for the improvement and embellishment of Rome, which give occasion for a number of excellent views of Roman buildings and street scenes, among them a splendid double-page view of the Piazza at St. Peter's.

Other conceits of this inventive genius are described in passing, such as a mechanically driven carriage without horses, of which an illustration is given as Fig. 35, one of the earliest forerunners of the automobile.

With large woodcut device on title, numerous diagrams in text, and a leaf inserted between pp. 464-465, containing 3 woodcuts to be cut out and used as vol-velles. Contemp. rough doeskin binding. £12.12.

The only edition of the collected works of François Viette (1540-1603)—"the greatest mathematician of the XVIth century." This volume is becoming as rare as the original editions of the treatises it comprises.

There are 16 treatises, of which we mention: I., "Isagoge in Artem Analyticam," the earliest work on symbolic algebra, explaining how algebra could be applied to the solution of geometrical problems; III., IV., V. on equations, with a method of approximating to the values of positive roots, based on a principle similar to that of Newton's rule; IX.: "Theoremata ad Sectiones Angulares"; XIV., XV. on the Calendar, etc.

Birmingham: M. Swinney; G. G. J. and J. Robinson, 1785. £135

With the half-title.

This very important book has now become extremely scarce.

"There is one other book which must be mentioned, because it is now so famous and so rare, that it will be looked for by the critical, and especially the American, reader. This book stands at the head of all modern research in drug therapy. It is An Account of the Foxglove, and some of its Medical Uses, and was published in 1785. The author was William Withering, a physician of Birmingham. The book is an account of a long series of experiments in the effect of digitalis on the heart and as a remedy in dropsy, and is one of the great and outstanding classics in English medical literature."

140 MELANCHTHON, PH. Initia doctrinae physicae. Frankfurt, Chr. Egenolff, 1550 De anima. Strassburg, in officina Crato Myliana, 1548. 8vo. With printer's mark. Stamped pigskin. £6.6.

Melanchthon's importance as a religious reformer has tended to overshadow his achievements as a writer on Science and Medicine. His two principal works in that field are contained in this volume. His course of lectures on Natural Science as held in the University of Wittenberg mentions Copernicus, but he does not accept his theory.

More interesting still is the De Anima, which comprises a complete Anatomy and Physiology of the human body (120 pp.). In later editions Melanchthon adopted the Vesalian anatomy. Fine copy.

222 VOLTA, ALESSANDRO. Lettere sull' Aria infiammabile nativa delle Paludi. Milan, Giuseppe Marelli, 1777. 8vo. 147 pp. + 1 leaf. With engr. vignette on title and 13 vignettes in the text, of which 6 illustrate experiments. Boards. £4.15.

Original edition of these 7 letters by Alessandro Volta, the celebrated pioneer in electrical research (1745-1827), relating his investigations into marsh-gas. Previously marsh-gas, like some other combustible gases, had not been distinguished from inflammable air, or hydrogen, until Volta showed that inflammable air, when burnt, required only one-fourth of the volume of oxygen which was needed for the complete combustion of marsh-gas, and that in this latter case alone was carbonic acid formed.

Fine copy of a rare early work in this field of scientific research.

"The famous first announcement of the 'Pile,' actually discovered by Volta in 1796. It opened a new era in electricity, the first fruit in England being Nicholson's and Carlyle's electrolysis of water and the brilliant isolation of sodium and potassium by Sir Humphrey Davy."

228 (WOLF, CASPAR). Diodori Euchyontis de Polychymia libri quatuor. S.l. (Zürich or Basel). 1567. 8vo. 128 ll. With a woodcut of a chemical furnace on title, repeated at end. Vellum. £3.3.

A very rare handbook of chemical experiments by a friend of Conrad Gesner's. Caspar Wolf, a physician and Greek scholar best known for his editions of ancient obstetric treatises. Not wishing to be suspected of alchemistic pursuits, against which he energetically inveighs in his preface, he issued this interesting and truly scientific book on chemistry anonymously, and pretended to present an ancient Greek work from an unique MS. by a certain Diodorus Euchyon, who is only an imaginary person, of course.

Library stamp on title, but a fine copy of a very scarce book.

139 MEDICO, JOSEPH BEN ELIAS DE. Sefer Elim. Sefer Ma 'ajan. Amsterdam, Menasse ben Israel, 1629. 4to. 4 ll. + 1 blank leaf + 83 pp. + 192 pp. + 80 pp. Title within fine typographieal border. With a fine engraved portrait of the author, several woodcuts of instruments and numerous diagrams. Old calf. £9.9.

In 1629 Joseph de Medico, a Hebrew physician from Crete, published his father Elias de Medico's book on Mathematics and Astronomy (Sefer Elim), together with his own tracts in the entire field of Natural Science and Philosophy (Sefer Ma'ajan). After the preface there are two pages in Latin giving an account of the contents.

Elias de Medico, a philosopher and physician, was an early follower of Copernicus; his son Joseph was in touch with modern European science; text and illustrations deal with the problems of the early XVIIth century in mathematics, astronomy, physics, chemistry, and even music (with woodcut of a violoncello).

A very fine, clean copy of a rare early Hebrew book on the exact sciences.

Folio. With engraved title and 56 ll., with 51 engraved plates. Boards. £4.15.

A sixteenth century handbook of surveying and map-making by a Venetian mathematician. It consists of an atlas of plates, with an explanatory text opposite. Some exquisite plates show the equipment of a surveyor with all the necessary instruments, and a plate later on (pl. 31) illustrates the use of those instruments. We draw attention to the 12 fine plates on map-making, one of which (pl. 43) gives the picture of an Italian town on the borders of a river with many details.
